

1-Glossary

Access Management: Improving the Efficiency of Maine Arterials, A Handbook for Local Officials, Maine Tomorrow, Maine Department of Transportation, 1994.

Williams, Kristine M., and Marshall, Margaret A., “Managing Corridor Development, A Municipal Handbook,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida, October 1996.

Williams, Kristine M., Sokolow, Gary, Rudge, Daniel E., and Eichin, Kurt, “Model Land Development and Subdivision Regulations that Support Access Management for Florida Cities and Counties,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida and Florida Department of Transportation, January 1994.

2-Current Problems

Access Management: Improving the Efficiency of Maine Arterials, A Handbook for Local Officials, Maine Tomorrow, Maine Department of Transportation, 1994.

Williams, Kristine M., and Forester, Richard J., “Land Development Regulations that Promote Access Management,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, NCHRP Synthesis 233, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1996.

Williams, Kristine M. and Marshall, Margaret A., “Managing Corridor Development, A Municipal Handbook,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida, October 1996.

3-Defining Access Management

Access Management Awareness Program Phase II Report, Center for Transportation Research and Education, Iowa State University, December 1997.

References: For Further Information

Access Management: Improving the Efficiency of Maine Arterials, A Handbook for Local Officials, Maine Tomorrow, Maine Department of Transportation, 1994.

Knapp, Keith K, Welch, Thomas M., and Witmer, John A., “Converting Four-Lane Undivided Roadways to a Three-Lane Cross Section: Factors to Consider. Institute of Transportation for the 69th Annual ITE Meeting in Las Vegas, Nevada, August 1999.

Koepke, F. J. and Levinson, H.S., “Access Management Guidelines for Activity Centers,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, Report 348, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1992.

Layton, Robert D., “Functional Integrity of the Highway System, Background Paper #1,” Oregon Department of Transportation, August 1996.

Rainer, George, “Understanding Infrastructure, A Guide for Architects and Planners,” John Wiley and Sons, 1990, pp. 99–123.

Simodynes, Timothy J., and Kuntemeyer, Marilyn, “The Effects of Reducing Conflict Points On Reducing Accident Rates,” paper presented at the 3rd National Access Management Conference, October 1998.

4-Developing an Access Management Program

Access Management: Improving the Efficiency of Maine Arterials, A Handbook for Local Officials, Maine Tomorrow, Maine Department of Transportation, 1994.

Best Practices in Arterial Management, Corridor Management Group, New York State Department of Transportation, November 1996.

Development of a Comprehensive Multi-Modal Access Management Plan, Delaware Department of Transportation, slide show presented at 3d National Conference on Access Management, October 1998.

References: For Further Information

- Hodgson, Glen, Layton, Robert, and Hunter-Zaworski, Kate, “Pedestrian and Bicyclist Impacts of Access Management,” Transportation Research Institute, Oregon State University, paper presented at 3d National Conference on Access Management, October 1998.
- Knapp, Keith K, Welch, Thomas M., and Witmer, John A., “Converting Four-Lane Undivided Roadways to a Three-Lane Cross Section: Factors to Consider. Institute of Transportation for the 69th Annual ITE Meeting in Las Vegas, Nevada, August 1999.
- Koepke, F. J., and Levinson, H.S., “Access Management Guidelines for Activity Centers,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, Report 348, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1992.
- Median Handbook*, District Median Task Team, Florida Department of Transportation, January 1997.
- Stover, Vergil G., and Koepke, Frank J., “Access, Location, and Design Participant Notebook,” National Highway Institute Course No. 15255, S/K Transportation Consultants, Inc., April 1998.
- Williams, Kristine M., and Forester, Richard J., “Land Development Regulations that Promote Access Management,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, NCHRP Synthesis 233, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1996.
- Williams, Kristine M., and Marshall, Margaret A., “Managing Corridor Development, A Municipal Handbook,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida, October 1996.

5-Access Management and the Comprehensive Plan

- Access Management: Improving the Efficiency of Maine Arterials, A Handbook for Local Officials*, Maine Tomorrow, Maine Department of Transportation, 1994.
- Iowa City Comprehensive Plan, Trafficways Functional Classification and Design Guidelines, Table 5, page 65.

References: For Further Information

- Koepke, F. J. and Levinson, H.S., “Access Management Guidelines for Activity Centers,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, Report 348, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1992.
- Simodynes, Timothy J. and Kuntemeyer, Marilyn, “The Effects Of Reducing Conflict Points On Reducing Accident Rates,” paper presented at 3rd National Access Management Conference, October 1998.
- Stover, Vergil G. and Koepke, Frank J., “Access, Location, and Design Participant Notebook,” National Highway Institute Course No. 15255, S/K Transportation Consultants, Inc., April 1998.
- Williams, Kristine M., and Forester, Richard J., “Land Development Regulations that Promote Access Management,” National Cooperative Highway Research Program, NCHRP Synthesis 233, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, 1996.
- Williams, Kristine M., and Marshall, Margaret A., “Managing Corridor Development, A Municipal Handbook,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida, October 1996.

6-Public Involvement

- Public Involvement in Access Management, speaker notes for slide presentation, Florida Department of Transportation, Systems Planning Office, Access Management/Systems Management Interactive Library, Version 1.0, October 1998.
- Williams, Kristine M., Marshall, Margaret A., and Becker, Janet, “A Public Involvement Handbook for Median Projects,” Center for Urban Transportation Research, University of South Florida and the Florida Department of Transportation, 1996.